- Mobile Clinics

The collapse of health services during the war period and beyond caused a terrible deterioration in people's health conditions, particularly in rural areas. Based on its long experience in the field of health, the Association implemented a mobile clinic project in order to alleviate the suffering of the people, especially women and children in rural areas, and to offer them health services. These programs, which have been implemented in the provinces of Arbil, Babil, Diyala, Wasit, Diwaniyah, Karbala, Anbar, gave the Association an opportunity to access remote and dangerous areas, as a result of armed conflicts, and also to access closed areas due to tribal customs, and it managed to form a wide range of contacts with people, and to provide urgent medical services to them, and raise health, environmental and the social level amongst them, and it managed to get to know their needs and the needs of their areas, and was also able to implement other programs, such as potable water projects, and classes for the eradication of illiteracy. As well as lobbying for the improvement of health centers' conditions and their development.

Through such programs, the relationship, between the Association and health services offices in the governorate and the Ministry of Health itself was consolidated. The Association was the only NGO which was invited to attend a workshop devoted to formulate the execution plan strategy for the advancement of mother's and child's health and reproductive health in Iraq, which was held in the city of Sulaimaniya in mid-September 2004. The Association Contributed again, in the annual conference of the Ministry of Health, held in Arbil 2005.

In addition to the medical services provided by these clinics, these clinics also, participated in educating pregnant women concerning breastfeeding, and the importance of visiting the health care center, and the necessity of women and children getting vaccines on time, and the organisation of workshops for midwives to develop their skills, and the development of communication between the local people and the health center in their region, and the development and strengthening of cooperation between these teams and the staff working in the health centers. In the light of that, the program manager in the Association participated in the first coordination meeting for WIT regional managers, which was organized by the Institute of International Education in San Francisco at the beginning of January 2007, which opened broad prospects to support the Association within this program.

In March 2007, and for a period of ten days, a training course was held in Baghdad, on the basics of windows, office and the internet for the purpose of developing the capacity of trainers on the program, attended by 12 trainees from the Association in the governorates of Baghdad, Salahadeen, Najaf and Karbala. It was the largest workshop to prepare trainers to be implemented in Iraq as part of this program.

In May 2007, the first course of WIT (Unlimited potential) started in Baghdad, along with professional skills, and then there were other courses in Arbil, Salahadeen and Karbala. The total number of trainees at the end of 2007 was (160). The training is designed to empower women and enhance their participation in the labor force, and to provide them with professional activities, and increase the incomes of the institutions in which they work and insure their sustainability, and to provide them with computer training technical skills on. The training period ranges from 30 to 45 days, with a total of 90 hours, where they are trained on the techniques of (WINDOWS, OFFICE), the Internet and e-mail, and professional skills, including (teamwork, leadership and administrative skills, professional public speaking skills, and entering the job market). After the completion of the training, the trainee is given a certificate of participation licensed by Microsoft and the Institute of International Education and the Association.

As a result of observing the trainees in this program and the conducting of assessments at the end of each session, the majority of these women were able to obtain a job or improved their status in the working place, and they managed to incorporate the technology acquired during the courses into their work, especially the teachers, who used the program Excel to process exam marks. Also, one of the trainees participated as an assistant trainer in the courses, and managed to encourage drop-out students to complete their studies. And there are other success stories recorded in the successful implementation of the program.
